MEDIA RELEASE

CAREER DEVELOPMENT IN RESOURCE SECTOR THE AIM OF LATEST NETWORKING EVENT

Resource Industry Network (RIN) will stage a Career Development Networking event on July 19 with the sole aim of helping young people grow and develop their careers in the resource sector.

On hand to offer some guidance and advice will be three leading industry personnel who will share and discuss the challenges and rewarding aspects of a career in the resources sector, whether it's working for a mining company or in the supply chain.

Jo Mackenzie from Ausenco, Heidi Fagan from Aurizon, and Jason Sharam from Linked Group Services will be part of the discussion panel and they're hoping that the resource leaders of the future will have some curly, challenging, and entertaining questions.

For anyone in the early stages of their STEM (science, technology, engineering, mathematics) career and wanting to hear from experienced professionals in engineering, heavy industrial or resources about their career paths, challenges and professional rewards, this is an event worth attending. Entry level staff, young managers, apprentices, trainees and university students are encouraged to come along.

RIN, as part of its recently-developed Gender Equity and Career Development Group, is keen to have as many of the 'younger' members of the workforce attend the event, as well as those who may be new to management roles.

The event will encourage them to network and build business relationships outside of their workplace and provide them with support and guidance to progress their careers right here in Mackay. It will also encourage them to be ambassadors for the region and the sector by speaking up about the positive aspects of living and working in Mackay. Event details are:
